This description of the Jaeckle International Business practice group has been prepared by the International Business attorneys at Jaeckle Fleischmann & Mugel, LLP and is intended for general information purposes only and should not be considered legal advice. You are urged to contact an attorney concerning any specific questions you have relating to your own situation.

The successful execution of each international business transaction is unique, requiring the efficient cooperation of experts in several legal disciplines.

OUR APPROACH

Jaeckle Fleischmann's International Business practice group brings together attorneys with extensive experience assisting clients with international operations. We advise clients in the areas of business formation, corporate and financial transactions, mergers and acquisitions, immigration, intellectual property, labor and employment, litigation, securities and tax. We count among our clients a number of international, Canadian and European companies.

Using a team approach, we provide our clients with a seamless set of resources that are called upon as needed, each focusing on a different aspect of international business law. In addition to the team of Jaeckle Fleischmann attorneys, as a member of TAGLaw, we can offer our clients an international network of 120 law firms with more than 250 offices and approximately 3000 lawyers in North America, 1200 in Europe, 450 in Latin America, 350 in Asia Pacific and 125 in Africa and the Middle East. Using this network, we can call upon experts in all legal disciplines to assist the Firm's International Business practice group in meeting the needs of clients in specific geographies and jurisdictions.
